PAY AS YOU GO.

BY WILL OF THE WOOD.

"No money! no money," such, such is the cry:
"Our pockets are empty, our coffers are dry,
Our creditors pushing, our notes are all due,
And with chinking the rhino, we've nothing to do!

The cause of this RUIN, none, none will deny,
Is buying without e'er a penny to buy,
Making bills with the Merchant—which foot up, you know—
And never once thinking to pay as you go.

The evil that now overshadows the land
Is trading on credit—not a dollar in hand—
In keeping up fashion's extravagant show,
And always neglecting to pay as you go.

A new dress is wanted, you give not a thought
To the means by which the new 'rag' must be bought:
The merchant, obliging, hints, "sir, it is low,'
And kindly suggests, you needn't pay as you go.

Wife wants a new bonnet, a silk or a shawl,
"The cost!' "pshaw! my dear, that is nothing at all,"
Mr. Brown has just told me I must not bestow
A thought on the money to pay as I go."

You bite at the bait—wife or you now parade,
In broadcloth or satin, for which you've not paid,
Till a gentle remind'r says, "friend, you are slow,
"'Twill be better in future to pay as you go."

You search in your pockets, 'nary red' have you there,
Your port monie opened, of cash it is bare—
You promise, 'tis broken, sheriff takes you in tow,
Then find it is prudent to pay as you go.

Down with the credit! if you have not the cash,
Wait for kind fortune to bequeath you the trash,
You suffer a little, this one thing you know,
'Tis lessen'd by sticking to "pay as you go."

Then you laugh at the sheriff and feel quite sublime,
A man, and independent, you owe not a dime:
READ THE PAPER YOU'VE PAID FOR, happy you grow,
And vow that forever you'll pay as you go.

FRANK LEE'S ENGAGEMENT.

A CHAPTER FROM REAL LIFE.

What I am going to relate is not very startling or 'thrilling,' as the minor critics say; but it is substantially true, and may interest the lovers of that species of writing.

Frank Lee was a fine young fellow, who had lately commenced the practice of law in our city:—and after filing quite a respectable number of 'declarations' in the courts, the youthful barrister, following the wont of his guild in all ages, had made another species of declaration to a young lady whose name was Miss Ellen Orsin; and it was soon understood that himself and the damsel, who was of the highest fashion, were duly engaged to be married.

One afternoon about dusk, Frank carefully locked his office, and sought the bachelor lodgings of his friend Tom Wellsby. Tom had lately returned from Europe—was an extremely handsome dandy of twenty-eight or thirty—and possessed all those elegancies of manner which I am told characterize invariably the traveled man.

'Delighted to see you, Frank,' was the salutation of Mr. Tom Wellsby, as he half rose from the sofa, upon which he had been lying, wrapped in an elegant silk dressing gown and extended his hand, 'but what in the world are you doing with that immense comfort around your neck?

'I take the night train down home, where I shall be for a week or two,' was the young man's reply, as he lit a cigar, 'and I have a favor to ask of you before I go.'

'It is granted.'

'That's like a real friend, Tom—and I'll conceal nothing. You must know then that I am engaged.'—

'Ah! yes—and you wish me.'—

'To attend in my place, during my absence.'

'Nothing will give me more pleasure, my dear boy—pray, who is it?

'Miss Ellen Orsin.'

'Ah!—a young lady of the best style, I think, and rich.'

'Yes, very sprightly too, and you will not have a disagreeable time.'

Mr. Wellsby nodded, and said:

'That makes no difference, Frank—but even at the risk of appearing both vain and presumptuous, I must be permitted to make a single observation.'

'I listen.'

'Women are strange creatures,' continued Mr. Tom Wellsby, smoothing his graceful moustache with a foppish air, 'and it is impossible to count upon them. Don't be angry—but are you quite at ease in trusting your lady-love to me? Suppose she falls in love with me—or reversing the idea, suppose I fall in love with her?'

Frank Lee smiled, and replied:

'I'm not at all afraid.'

'We can't calculate certainly upon women—they are so capricious.'

'Do you think so? But I am willing to risk the chance.'

'Very well, Frank, it is at your peril. My friendship for you will make it quite impossible for me to become enamored of Miss Ellen, and run against you: honor bright, and there's not a particle of danger there. But women have a ridiculous preference for men of my style, you see I'm thinking aloud, and if your lady-love forgets you, don't come here and murder me.'

'Again, I am willing to risk it,' Frank said laughing, as he gazed at the inimitably foppish Mr. Tom Wellsby, 'so it's all agreed, and I must get on.'

The young men then shook hands, and separated.

Frank Lee remained absent for three weeks, and on his return looked decidedly gloomy. One morning he looked gloomier still, as he perused a letter which his servant brought from the post-office. He read the letter again—folded it carefully, placed it in a drawer, and then rising, began to pace up and down his office, buried it seemed in absorbing and sorrowful reflection.

He was interrupted by the entrance of Tom Wellsby, who was clad in the height of the fashion, and carried his whalebone cane, with exquisite grace as he strolled along.

'Ah! you've returned have you, Frank?' he said; 'I'm glad of it, and I give up my charge.'

'Have you fallen in love with her?' said the young man with an uneasy laugh, which was plainly forced. 'why something must have happened, for you really are blushing, Tom.'

'Pshaw!' replied Mr. Wellsby, 'how can you make such a charge against me, don't you know I rogue, as they do in Parish?'

'And you return me my—my lady-love, heart-whole?'

'Quite,' replied Mr. Wellsby, with a sigh and an undeniable constraint of manner, 'she is really delightful—but I can't stop now—I've an engagement. Call soon, my dear Frank—delighted to see you.'

And Mr. Wellsby hastened out without giving his friend time to reply. Frank gazed after him in silence for some moments: then going into his chamber, which adjoined the office, he made a rapid toilet, and hastened to the fine mansion of Mr Orsin.

Miss Ellen sent word that she was engaged—would Mr. Lee please excuse her? The young fellow gazed at the servant with perfect bewilderment, and was only awaked from his reverie of surprise, so to speak, by the closing door. Then with an up and down movement of the head, he retreated, and soon regained his office.

On the next morning, he called again; Miss Ellen regretted that she was indisposed—a violent headache must be her excuse for not seeing Mr Lee.

'Very well,' said the young man compressing his lips, 'to-morrow shall interminate the affair.

And duly on the next day he made his decisive trial. This time Miss Ellen was 'not at home,' and her visitor bowed calmly with the air of a man who is not at all astonished. He walked ten paces, and then quickly turned his head, fixing his eyes upon a window which he knew to be that of the young lady's chamber. As he did so, a corner of the gauze curtain fell, and an arm with a bracelet upon the wrist, was quicklw withdrawn. Now, this bracelet was a turquoise which Frank had presented to Miss Ellen.

The young man went without a word to the lodgings of Mr. Tom Wellsby, and his visit seemed to disconcert that gentleman greatly.

'Why, how goes it Frank?' he said, pointing to a cigar; 'haven't seen you for three days. Where have you been?' he added, avoiding his friend's eye.

'Calling upon Miss Orsin,' was Frank's reply, as he declined the cigar.

'Ah! calling upon Miss Orsin, eh? not up on Ellen?' was Mr. Wellsby's rather uneasy question.

'I say Miss Orsin,' replied Frank, 'because having made three visits, and found myself turned away at the threshold, I can no longer count the young lady as one of my friends.'

'Ah! is it possible,' said Tom Wellsby, coloring with pleasure, 'but really, Frank, that is shameful!.'

'Yes—perhaps.'

'And I'll tell you what is more shameful still!' cried Tom, throwing aside his dressing gown, and rising suddenly, 'I'll make a clean breast of it, Frank! and acknowledge my disgrace! I have been a false friend! I have betrayed my trust! I have gone, day after day, and looked into those dangerous eyes, and played my airs and graces, like a miserable sham gentleman! and made your sweet-heart forget you—give you up for a fellow that's not one-tenth as worthy of respect! I say I've acted like a scoundrel—that I have no respect for myself—that this lady loves me, and I love her, there it is! I've talked it out! miserable humbug that I am! and if you wish, you may take that stick and cane me as I deserve!'

The honest fop had quite forgotten his drawl languor—his eyes flashed, and his form grew straight and manly, as he gazed with a color in his cheeks upon his injured friend.

Frank Lee remained silent, however, concealing his thoughts perfectly beneath a calm and thoughtful mask.

'You don't answer me!' said Tom Wellsby, passing from shame to anger, 'I suppose you despise me too much! I've made an honest confession—I'll never go near her again—if after that you are satisfied, you may do as you please!'

'My dear Tom,' said his friend, looking at the irate countenance, with a smile which gradually expanded and illuminated his whole face, 'I don't answer because I really am at a loss for words to express my admiration of your honesty, and my obligations to you, for what you have done.

'Obligations!' cried Mr. Wellsby.

'Listen now,' said his friend with a calm smile, 'and you will not find my explanation a difficult one. I came to town last year from the country, leaving, among other persons, a young lady of seventeen, with whom I was brought up, and who was my cousin, I thought I only loved her as my cousin—this little Carrie—and I almost forget her. I saw Miss Ellen Orsin, and her vivacity, grace, and fashion, to be honest, made me believe that I had found at last my proper wife. I paid my addresses—was accepted—and then waked up to find that the only woman I really loved was my cousin. I shrunk from uttering a whisper of this, however, to Ellen, and you may fancy my position. To marry a woman I did not love, or say to her that I loved another and could not love her, in spite of our engagement: that was simply my choice of course. Do you see now what my artifice meant? I wished to give Miss Orsin an opportunity of changing her mind— of discarding me—I thought of you, and I came to you. I went away and found that I loved my cousin more even than I had ever dreamed, and that she loved me! Do you recollect coming to see me upon my return? Well, you interrupted me nearly in my perusal of a letter from Carrie, which betrayed the innocent secret of her heart more powerfully than a thousand protestations! From that moment I was wretched, thinking of my engagement, and I was overjoyed at the three refusals of Miss Ellen to see me! You complete my joy—thanks, thanks! Tom, for throwing yourself into the breach; and so, every one shall have his own, and be a married man!'

Mr. Frank Lee's laugh was echoed by that of Mr. Tom Wellsby, who although somewhat mortified at having been thus made an instrument of, was far too much overjoyed to find fault.

The friends were married on the same night, and soon afterwards Frank presented Mrs. Lee to Mrs. Wellsby.

'I don't wonder at your perference,' whispered Mrs. Ellen Welisby, with a smile to Frank.

'Nor I at your's!' was Frank's reply, accompanied by a gallant bow. But he never told her of his artifice.

THE NEEDLE'S EYE AND CAMEL.

"It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle, than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of heaven."

There are thousands who read this passage, but receive from it no definite idea. Various explanations have been given of it, none of which ever seemed to us to convey the true meaning, showing the beauty and force of the figure. All admit that it is impossible for a camel to go through a needle eye, yet we cannot doubt that some men who are rich will be saved. We have met, somewhere in our reading, with an explanation that we regard as probably the true one, which was this. We are informed by travellers, that all the cities of the East are surrounded by high and massive walls. At certain points these walls have passways for the exit and entrance of the inhabitants. The passways in times of peace, were open in the day, but closed at night. By the side of these large entrances were those that were much smaller, used by foot passengers and by those who had occasion to go in and out at night—they were called the "needle's eye." A camel without any burden, can pass thro' these, yet with much difficulty. Now it is not impossible for a rich man to enter heaven; for we trust that there are many already in the paradise of God, who consecrated their wealth to service of Christ, and looked to him alone for salvation.—But just as the camel must be relieved of his load before he can pass through the "needle's eye," so the rich man must lay off his heart the riches of the world, and consecrate them, as well as himself, to the service and glory of God; for it is utterly impossible to serve Him and mammon. It is much easier for a camel to go through the "needle's eye." What, then, will become of those professors whose hearts are set on this world? Worldly minded, money-loving Christian, we leave you to ponder this solemn question. It is one of deep and eternal importance to you.

GRANDFATHER'S SPECTACLES.

'There, now!' cried a little niece of ours, while rummaging a drawer in a bureau, 'there, now! Gran'pa has gone to heaven without his spectacles. What will he do?' And, shortly afterward, when another aged relative was supposed to be sick unto death, in the house, she came running to his bedside, with the glasses in her hand, and an errand on her lips:

'You goin' to die?'

'They tell me so.'

'Goin' to heaven?'

'I hope so.'

'Well, here [are gran'pa's spectacles. Won't you take them to him.'

A CONFIDENT WITNESS.

A witness spoke several times during his testimony of occurrences about the time of his birth, when a surely judge interrupted him:

'Do you mean to say that you can relate occurrences at the time of your birth, from your own recollection?'

The laugh, which began against the witness, turned upon the judge, as the former wittily replied:

'Why, sir, I cannot say that I exactly remember every particular, but I can assure your honor that I was there.'

AN AMUSING STORY.

Hooper, the editor of an Alabama journal, whose name we just now forget, but which has always something in it to make us laugh, tells us the following yarn:

'Shall I tell you a bit of a story, having no connection with politics, this hot, dry weather? By permission—

'Old Col. D——, of the Mobile district, was one of the most singular characters ever known in Alabama. He was testy and eccentric, but possessed many fine qualities, where were fully appreciated by the people of the district. Many of his freaks are yet fresh in the memory of the 'old uns' of Mobile—and all will tell you that the Colonel, though hard to beat, was once terribly taken in by a couple of legal tyros. It is George Woodward, I believe, tells the story; but, however that may be, it is in keeping with others related of the old gentleman.

'It seems that Col. D—— had a misunderstanding with the two gentlemen alluded to, and was not on speaking terms with them, although all three of them were professionally riding the circuit pretty much together. The young ones being well aware of the Colonel's irascible nature, determined, as they left one of the courts for another, to have some sport, at his expense by the way. They accordingly got about half an hour's start in leaving, and presently they arrived at a broad, dark stream, that looked as if it might be a dozen feet deep, but which in reality was hardly more than as many inches. Crossing it, they alighted, and, pulling off their coats and boots, sat quietly down to watch for the old 'Tartar.'

'Jogging along, at length came up the old fellow. He looked first at the youngsters, who were gravely drawing on their boots as if they had just had a swim, and then he looked at the broad creek that rolled before him like a fluent, translucent star. The Colonel was awfully puzzled.

'Is this creek swimming?' he growled after a pause of some moments.

'No reply was made—the young men simply mounted their horses, and rode off some little distance, and stopped to match our hero.

'The Colonel slowly divested himself of boots, coat, pantaloons and drawers. These he neatly tied up in his handkerchief, and hung them on the horn of the saddle, then he remembered, and, as he was a short, fat man, with a paunch of inordinate size, rather inadequate legs, a face like a withered apple, and a brown wig, there is no doubt he made an interesting picture as he bestrode his steed, with the breeze holding with the extremity of his only garment.

'Slowly and cautiously the old gentleman took the creek. Half a length and the water was not to look deep. Here the horse stopped to drink. A length and a half, and the stream was no deeper! Thirty feet farther, and a decided shoaling!

'Here Col. D—— reined up. 'There must,' said he, 'be a h—ll of a swift deep channel between this and the bank. See how it runs! We'll dash through here.'

A sharp lash made the horse spring the watery waste, and another carried the horse and rider safely to the opposite bank. The creek was nowhere more than a foot deep.

A wild yell from the young 'uns announced tdeir approbation of the sport as they galloped away.

'I'll catch you, you rascals,' was ground between Col. D——'s teeth; and away he galloped in hot pursuit, muttering vengeance on his foes.

On, on, they sped, pursuer and pursued. The youngsters laughed, the Colonel swore with mighty emphasis, while his shirt fluttered and cracked in the wind, like a loose flying jib.

On, on, and the pursued reached the farm house on the road side. Their passing startled a flock of geese from a fence corner, which, as the Colonel dashed up, met him with outspread wings, elongated necks, and hisses dire. His horse swerved suddenly, and the Colonel in a moment was on the ground, in a most romantic 'heap,' with his brown wig lying by his side, and the bundle of clothes scattered all around.

The white headed children of the house came on first, took a distant view of the monster, as it seemed to them, and then returned to report progress. After a little while, the father of the family came, and the affair being explained, assisted the Colonel in making his toilette; Colonel swearing, and the countryman laughing all the while.

Dressed and mounted, our hero started off with a woeful phiz, and was very soon out of sight.'

DECISION OF CHARACTER.—'Washington was never known to desert a cause he had once embraced, or change an opinion which, from a full knowledge of facts the had deliberately formed. This helped to make him a model man, and carried him through many of the difficulties with which he was often surrounded. It is a most desirable trait in man's character. Firmness and decision are golden jewels. Very few attain sufficient strength and firmness to say No! every time it should be said. It is human weakness to waver. Difficulties daunt us, and temptation steals upon us. Of all men, the inebriate, in his efforts to reform, stands in need of firmness and decision; the cravings of his depraved appetite are hard to resist, and nothing short of an inflexible No, will place the evil behind him. If he wavers—if he falters, he is lost in the wilderness of intoxication again; while if he clings to his purpose to drink no more, he is safe from his besetting sin. Strive to place yourself upon a rock of firmness against which the storms of temptation may beat and not prevail.'

HOW WOMEN HAVE THE BEST OF EVERYTHING.

A bachelor gentleman, of New York, incensed at the talk concerning the 'rights' that women have not, and the persecution that they endure, pours out his vexation at great length in the Home Journal.—Hear him:

'Don't talk to me about the best of everything! The ladies have all the pick and the choice. Then, again, at all public places of amusement, witness the fatigue the gentlemen often encounter. Just observe a party of ladies and gentlemen going into a box at a theatre—the ladies all jump into the best seats, without being invited; the gentlemen timidly stand back, and are pushed into a corner, where they can see nothing, except by standing up, and leaning over, at the expense of a crooked neck the next morning, or a weariness af limbs which a night's rest is not sufficient to remove, whilst the ladies sleep in the lap of forgetfulness, and at breakfast are as fresh as a pack of hounds on a summer morning. No, sir! Many a weary night of it I have had, in standing and waiting for the oppressed sex, as you call it. I have also wished I were a woman myself, except that I would disdain to accept such services from the other sex as they do. And yet they would tax us for the support of their impracticables! would they?

"Woman's work never done! say you? but what sort of work? They are chatting all the time of it. Don't they sit at the window all the day, observing everything that is done in the street? Of course I mean those who do not ride out. Don't they know everybody that rings for admittance? And did not our servant discover how many clean shirts the gentleman opposite used in a week, and how often he changed his stockings, and whether he wore drawers in summer or not, and all that by merely watching the laundress' bundle at the door?

"Making and mending clothes for children! Nonsense! They are amusing themselves with the children all the while, and they like it, and long for a drive in a carriage now and then, for a change, but not for other and more agreeable work, not they; for they not only like the work, but they have even the dress makers to come and sit beside them, that they may be always at hand to superintend and direct. Toil! The most of them are weary just sitting doing nothing. What would they do if they had their will? Even those who have carriages at their command, at last think it a trouble to take an hour's drive and shopping; and so toilsome (as you call it) does it become, at last, that they cannot even stand in a dry goods store, but must have the silks, satins and laces all brought to them, as they seat themselves before the counter.

"Food and clothing! I believe women in general are all better clad than men. How often will you see a tidy, even lady looking wife, walking with an operative husband poorly clad; and a handsome, well-dressed girl, with a brother out at the elbows; and how often does a wife say to her husband, 'you're a shame to be seen. And how expensive ladies' dresses are, and their bonnets! Why a girl's duck of a bonnet costs two men's hats and then the rings and bracelets, the gold chains that they wear! Every woman carries more value upon her than any man of her rank. A watch is a man's only luxury, and that is often expensive; but then he carries that for use; a woman's watch is only for show, as are earrings, bracelets and necklaces. No, sir! the wealth of society is spent upon women; they have more than their share. And what have men, instead? A piece of broadcloth so sparingly used, while it takes twenty yards to make a dress for a woman, about three and a half are more than enough for a respectable sized man. It is always economy in dressing a man, but extravagance in dressing a woman. And as to food, they get as much as they can take, but they lace themselves so tightly that they dare not eat much. They would if they durst. And then they have all the choice things, while we are expected to be contented with their leavings. But don't tell me, sir, about women being treated worse than men.'

THE MOTHER MOULDS THE MAN.

That it is the mother that moulds the man is a sentiment illustrated by the following recorded observation of a shrewd writer:

'When I lived among the Choctaw Indians, I held a consultation with one of their chiefs respecting the successive stages of their progress in the art of civilized life, and among other things he informed me that at their start they fell into a great mistake—they only sent their boys to school. These boys came home intelligent men, but they married uneducated and uncivilized wives, and the uniform result was that the children were all like their mothers. Thus the father soon lost all his interest in both wife and children.—And now, said he, if we educate but one class of the children, we would choose the girls; for, when they become mothers, they educate their sons. This is the point and it is true. No nation can become fully enlightened when the mothers are not in a good degree qualified to discharge the duties of the home work of education.'

How many fond mothers and frugal housewives keep their pretty daughters and preserves for some extra occasion, or some 'big bug' or other, until both turn sour! This seems to us marvelously poor economy.

If you want to know whether a tree is hollow or not, axe it.

ELIZABETH CITY:

TUESDAY MORNING, MAY 4, 1858.

FOR GOVERNOR:

JOHN W. ELLIS,

OF ROWAN COUNTY.

☞ Messrs. Craige, Letcher, Avery and Shaw, of the House of Representatives, will accept our thanks for several interesting speeches upon Kansas and Central American affairs.

☞ We regret exceedingly that the letter of our regular and attentive correspondent, "Rip Slap" containing a full account of the trial of Benj. Harrison for murder, in the Superior Court of Northampton County came too late for insertion in this issue, it shall appear in our next.

☞ Messrs. Holden & Wilson, of the Standard, have kindly sent us the fifth Annual Report of the Superintendent of Common Schools, for which they will please accept our thanks. The Report is in pamphlet form, and gotten up in a manner that cannot be excelled. It reflects credit upon the skill of the publishers.

DR. SHAW'S SPEECH.

We should have commenced the publication of the admirable speech of our distinguished and able representative, the Hon. H. M. Shaw, in reply to Mr. Gilmer, in this number of the Pioneer, but for the incorrect manner in which it is reported in the Globe: We shall lay it before our readers as soon as we receive it in an authentic form, assuring them that it will amply repay a perusal. We shall reserve our comments until we can give the speech.

THE CROPS.—We much fear that serious damage has been done to the crops by the recent snow and frost. The wheat has been materially injured, the corn almost entirely cut down, and early vegetables, with but few exceptions, completely destroyed.

Snow fell rapidly for some ten or twelve consecutive hours on Monday night and Tuesday morning; and though the remainder of the day was pleasant, there was a killing frost at night, to which, we think, is owing the major portion of the damage.

KANSAS.—The vote upon the report of the Kansas Conference committee had not been taken at last intelligence we received from Washington. Though its fate is involved in doubt, there is some probability that it will be adopted. Black Republicanism is dead against it. Some of the anti-Lecompton democrats favor it, and among them Cox of Ohio. A few Southern Democrats oppose. The six Southern Know Nothings will, of course. Gilmer voted against appointing the committe, he will then oppose the report to be consistent —and for other reasons. By the way, what says our neighbor of the Sentinel to the Bill of the committee.

POSTSCRIPT.—We learn by last night's mail that the report of the Kansas Conference Committee had been adopted in the House, by a vote of 112 to 103. This rids Congress of this troublesome question for the present sassion.

H. W. MILLER.

The Weldon Patriot by its fair and respectful notice of the recent action of H. W. Miller, administers a severe rebuke to several of its American contempoaries, who have indulged freely in abuse of that gentleman, and have not hesitated to assign the most unworthy motives for his conduct. The Patriot says of Mr. Miller:

This gentleman has declared his intention to support the Administration of Mr. Buchanan. While we regret the loss of Mr. Miller, especially as we have been in the habit of relying somewhat upon his political teachings; still we do not feel at liberty to denounce or to censure his conduct; doubtless he has reasons which appear satisfactory to himself, and we have no right to inquire into the motives which have prompted him in the steps which he has taken.

NORTHERN RELIGIOUS PUBLICATIONS.

We always welcome to our table every paper devoted to the dissemination of religious truths, caring little about the peculiar views with which it may be colored. If engaged in promulgating those great fundamental doctrines which the Saviour taught when sojourning among men, and now to be found in the record which he has left as a beacon-light to guide mankind in the path of duty and to heaven, we hail them as laborers in the vineyard of the Almighty, and bid them God-speed in the good work before them. Though, unfortunately for us, we are not yet numbered among that goodly host who claim to be the recipients of that regenerating influence that comes from above, and prepares man for the enjoyment of a place in the presence of his Maker, yet we are neither a skeptic or an infidel or an uninterested spectator of the progress of true and evangelical religion in the world — Therefore we cordially welcome the messenger that honestly proclaims the Gospel, and presents to man those divine truths that line the way of life, and warn him to shun the doom that God has prepared for the violators of His law. With this feeling and sympathy in every effort looking to the advancement of christianity, we are still constrained to regard with suspicion and distrust whatever emanates in a Northern atmosphere and comes to us clothed in the garb of religion. So completely identified are the Northern organs of the Church with the fell spirit of abolitionism, making religion subordinate to its accursed doctrines, and Christianity go hand in hand with its abominable heresies, that to find one free from its polluting touch, or not engaged in the work of evil, is so rare an occurrence, that we know not that it has yet been chronicled. War upon slavery is held by these teachers of things divine to be a legitimate business for the professing christian, and the press, like the pulpit, has been desecrated by stirring up sectional strife and urging a crusade against the South. These remarks have been suggested by the reception of a new journal published in the City of New York bearing the title of "THE WAY OF LIFE," and devoted to the spread of religious information, but more particularly to the interest of young men. In the cursory examination which we have given it, it is true, we do not find its pages disfigured by articles bearing upon slavery, but there are names among those of its contributors that would stamp its encouragement in a Southern latitude as dangerous. When the pen of the notorious fanatic and anti-slavery propagandist, —— Cheever, with others that might be named, are to furnish material for its columns, we may well question the possibility of "THE WAY OF LIFE" being a proper journal for us to recommend to the support of the people of the South.

HON. J. W. ELLIS—OPPOSITION.

We might very readily submit the claims of the Democratic candidate for Governor, the Hon. J. W. Ellis, to the people of the State, without a word in his support, and confidently rely upon their verdict in his behalf. His reputation is co-extensive with the State, and his qualifications for the office for which he has been nominated are admitted even by his political enemies. He is known as a gentleman of superior ability, high character, and extensive political information. As a democrat, he is among the true and tried; his record is spotless; his antecedents will bear the test of the most searching analysis. Such is the man that the Democratic party have brought before the people of North Carolina for their suffrages, and what have the opposition to urge against him? What objection do they raise to his being the next Governor of the State? Have they an array of principles which they pretend will better promote the interest of the State than those held and advocated by Judge Ellis? If so, what are they? What measures have we to consider in lieu of those which the Democratic party present in the platform upon which their candidate stands? Not one that should enter into a Gubernatorial canvass; not one that can be influenced in the slightest degree by all the power vested in the hands of every Governor that may be elected from this time henceforward and forever. The solitary question of distribution; the worn-out, exploded and condemned humbug of a division of the public lands is the only issue which we have now proposed by the opposition, and hanging to this as the last medium of salvation, they determine to drag the remnant of their obnoxious organization through the coming canvass. To this scheme of land distribution Judge Ellis is uncompromisingly antagonistic, and upon this point, we are told, there will be no one one to oppose him. That he must be from the democratic ranks, for it is freely conceded that a true blue Know Nothing will be distanced in the race. A glance at this proposition will show how utterly hollow, how bare-faced the pretension of opposition to democratic rule that is set up by these denunciators of every thing that savors of Democracy. It will demonstrate to a mathematical certainty, that the only object aimed at is to get into place, irrespective of principle, regardless of previous professions of devotion to party measures. Brandreth's pills would be as effective in working a Mississippi steamer against a ten mile current, as a Governor of North Carolina in advancing or influencing the distribution of the public domain among the States. With it he can have nothing to do or to say, only so far as the expression of his individual opinion is concerned. It is beyond the reach of his influence, and distribution would be as essentially benefitted by an executive who had never heard the word mentioned, as though Duncan McRae governed the State. This will not be denied; and yet upon this single and isolated idea, Judge Ellis is to be opposed. The gentleman who is expected to nurse this pet bantling through the campaign, and to play convenience to his old enemies, is represented as the but out of democracy, with only a little of the anti-distribution bark peeled off. It is not pretended that he is recreant to any other principle, and that this alone divides him from his party. If this be true, what are the advantages claimed to the opposition by the election of a distributionist? Agreeing with the Democratic party upon all questions involving State government, as we are told, we again enquire how far the election of Duncan McRae, or any other of the same stripe, would contribute to establish and engraft the "cherished principles" of Know-Nothingism upon our State policy? This thing is absurd and lays bare the device of our enemies. They have candidly avowed their inability to carry the State under their own banner; they have proclaimed their weakness and their utter destitution of the means to prosecute a successful campaign in their own name, and if they fight with a hope of victory, it must be with a Democratic leader—one whose ideas of State policy are diametrically opposed to those to which they boast an unfaltering devotion, and which they have vaunted as the only bulwark to our future safety and prosperity. What can they expect to accomplish by a course of this kind? The object is as plain as the noon-day sun. They care nothing for distribution; it is but a hobby that has before been ridden until now it is but a fleshless carrass; Duncan McRae is but an instrument, a cats-paw, to pull the political nuts from the fire; they will use him, and then abuse him. The treason will be acceptable, but the traitor will be spurned when the deed is consummated. In this contemplated opposition we shall have an attempt to break down the Democratic party, through the aid of one that has heretofore co-operated with it—and not by a bold and manly avowal of a line of policy which they can urge before the people and sustain. Their hopes of success, if hopes they have—are based upon a division of the Democracy. If they can succeed in this they will gulp down McRae will all his "loco-foco sins" which, it is contended, still hang around him. But we rely confidently upon the result. The people of North Carolina look for the substance and are not content with shadows. They advocate and vote for principle, and this trick to impose upon them will receive an emphatic condemnation. Between a straightforward, consistent, and unvarying Democrat, such as is presented in Judge Ellis, and an office-seeking, time-serving, disorganizing distributionist, they can never hesitate.

JUDGE ELLIS' LETTER OF ACCEPTANCE.

Below will be found the letter of the Committee appointed to inform the Hon. John W Ellis of his nomination as the Democratic candidate for Governor of North Carolina, and the letter of that gentleman accepting the nomination. It is, says the Raleigh Standard, a clear, patriotic, and able response to the Committee, and through them to the people of the State:

CHARLOTTE, N. C., April 15, 1858.

Hon. John W. Ellis:

DEAR SIR: You are aware that the Democratic prty of North Carol na assembled in Convention in this place on yesterday, for the purpose of nominating a candidate for Governor of the State. That nomination has fallen upon you, and we have been appointed a Committee to inform you of the same, and to request your acceptance. To us this is an agreeable duty, and in performing it we take pleasure in saying to you that the Convention was undoubtedly the largest assemblage of the kind ever witnessed in the State, and that all of its deliberations were characterized by harmony and good feeling—circumstances no less complimentary to yourself than auspicious to our party.

You will find enclosed a copy of the resolutions adopted by the Convention as the Platform of the Party. We feel assured they will receive your cordial approval and endorsation.

Allow us to express our earnest hope that you will accept the nomination, and to assure you, as we feel authorized to do, of the hearty and united support of the entire Democratic party of North Carolina.

With assurances of high regard,

We are, very respectfully, &c.,

J. F. SIMMONS,
W. H. THOMAS,
A. M. LEWIS,
Committee.

HALIFAX, April 20th, 1858.

GENTLEMEN:—I am in the receipt of your favor of the 15th inst., advising me of my nomination as a candidate for the office of Governor of the State, by the Convention of the Democratic party, assembled at Charlotte on the 14th inst., and requesting my acceptance of the same together with a copy of the resolutions adopted by the Convention.

Deeply sensible, as I am, of the honor thus conferred upon me by my political friends—a compliment the more flattering, as you suggest, because of the imposing character of the Convention and the harmony that attended its deliberations—yet, I am far from thinking that any mere desire of honoring an individual was the cause of bringing together so large a representation of the Democracy of the State as was present at Charlotte. The advancement of great political principles, such as are embodied in the resolutions adopted, in which are involved the honor and welfare of the country, was doubtless, the ruling influence that pervaded the Convention and directed its deliberations to a harmonious conclusion.

These principles, are such as have guided my political course through life; at all times, heretofore, they have been maintained by me, and I make no sacrifice of opinion now, in saying to you and through you to the Democratic party of the State, that they shall have my zealous support, in the coming canvass, as they have my entire and conscientious approval.

Most cordially do I respond to that resolution of the Convention, expressing an approval of the administration of Mr. Buchanan; the most interesting measure of which is the proposition for the immediate admission of Kansas into the Union, under what is known as the Lecompton Constitution.

The just expectations of the country in our Chief Magistrate have been fully realized; indeed expectations based, as they were, upon his known ability, patriotism and virtue and upon his historical fame as connected with the strict constructive teachings of the Democratic Party, could not well be disappointed.

This sentiment of the Convention will doubtless be responded to by the people of North-Carolina at the approaching election, in a manner that will prove most grateful to the feelings of a faithful public servant.

Well is it observed by the Convention, that the rejection of Kansas, 'can only be viewed as a blow aimed at the equality of the States in the Union,' an equality which our interestes and our honor alike require us to maintain. The opposition offered to its admission, is an attempt to make a practical application of the abolition sentiment promulgated by a large and influential sectional party in this country, that no more States, acknowledging property in slaves, shall be admitted into the Union." This is manifestly the true issue presented, notwithstanding the disguise attempted to be thrown around the question and the subterfuges resorted to by the opponents of Kansas in Congress, through the instrumentality of parliamentary tactics to accomplish the defeat of the measure. Whether this attempt to pervert our political system shall prove successful, remains to be seen; but this much is sufficiently apparent to the people of the South, that their reliance for the maintenance of their position of equality in the Union, as States, and the preservation of the country itself, against the combined attack of fanaticism abroad and faction at home, is upon the strong arm of the Democratic party. It is now the only national party in the country,—the only one having the power and the will to secure the "constitutional rights of all sections of that country."

This obvious fact is daily bringing to the support of the national Administration patriotic men, who, having heretofore acted with other political organizations, are now impelled by an urgent conviction of public duty, to give their adhesion to the Democratic party. The course pursued by such persons, furnishes the gratifying evidence that, whenever real peril shall threaten this country, there will rise up men for its defence,—men who can triumph over the passions and prejudices of the hour, and submit to the paramount demands of patriotism; and herein we have an enduring assurance of the ability of the people to preserve the Union of the States and our national integrity, under which we have grown prosperous and happy as a people, great and powerful as a nation, and which, under a Divine superintendence, will impart these blessings to our posterity.

I deem it unnecessaay to say more, at present, upon the topics referred to in the resolutions of the Convention, as I propose visiting the several parts of the State before the election, for the purpose of expressing my views fully upon the various questions that now engage the public attention.

In making known my acceptance of the nomination tendered me by the Convention, I have only to add that, should the people of the State confirm that nomination by an election, I will devote my abilities and energies to the promotion of such measures as will tend to advance the prosperity and happiness of our people, and as far as may pertain to the Executive office, to maintain the honor of North Carolina and her equality among the States of the Union; so that the independence and liberties we have inherited from our ancestors, may go down unimpaired to posterity.

I am, gentlemen, respectfully,

Your fellow-citizen,

JOHN W. ELLIS.

MESSRS. J. F. SIMMONS, WM. H. THOMAS, A. M. LEWIS, Committee.

MOUNT VERNON THE PROPERTY OF THE NATION.

It is with feelings of the highest gratification that we announce to the public that the persevering efforts of the Ladies' Mount Vernon Association of the Union have been crowned with success commensurate with their sacred views and lofty patriotism, and they have at last secured to the American people the privilege of making the home and grave of WASHINGTON the property of the nation!

On the failure of the Mount Vernon bill in the General Assembly of Virginia, we renewed our overtures to Mr WASHINGTON to sell the property to the Association. These overtures met with a favorable response, and on the 6th of April a contract was signed by Mr. WASHINGTON, which obliged him to transfer Mount Vernon to the Association, on its compliance with the following terms, viz:

The payment of $200,000 for two hundred acres of land, including the mansion and landing-place, and, above all, the tomb.

Eighteen thousand dollars to be paid on closing of contract, and the remainder of the sum, in four bonds, payable in yearly installments, with the permission, after payment of the bond, to pay to Mr. WASHINGTON any amount of the balance due, in sums, of not less than $5,000, which sums will be credited to the Association, in this manner lessening the interest.

The title to the estate, and possession to be given on payment of the principal and interest, and the privilege also granted of obtaining possession, on thirty day's notice, at any time the Association may be ready to furnish the entire purchase money.

Orators, statesmen, the noble brotherhoods of Masons, Odd Fellows, &c., patriots, one and all, have come promptly to the aid of woman! And ye, women of the North and of the South, of the East and of the West—will ye not rally to the work? Will ye not vie, one with another, which will give most, and do most, that we may, on the 22d of February, 1859, claim and take possession of the home and grave of him who loved us all; and thus make his birth day the birth day also of republican gratitude, justice and fraternal love?

ANN PAMELA CUNNINGHAM,
Regent of the Mount Vernon Ladies' Association.

RICHMOND, Friday, April 16, 1858.

Speech of Hon. H. M. Shaw.

We publish to-day, to the exclusion of much other matter, the late speech of Hon. H. M Shaw, of this State, mainly in reply to the remarks of Mr Gilmer on the Kansas question. This is the ablest, the most pointed, and most impressive speech which Mr. Shaw has yet delivered; and it cannot fail to add to his reputation wherever it is read. Mr. Gilmer's fallacies and unsoundness on this vital question are thoroughly exposed.

It will be seen that the veracious Joshua R. Giddings, finding that his friend Mr. Gilmer was in a close place, came to his aid and denied that he congratulated him on the memorable occasion when Mr. Houston cried out 'Kiss him Giddings!'—Joshua, it is clear, does not make out his case. The witness is willing, but the testimony bears upon its face intrinsic evidence of its falsity.—Standard.

REVIVAL.—The Charlotte (N. C.) Democrat says that 25 or 30 persons have joined the Methodist Church at that place within the past two weeks.

About 40 members have been added to the M. E. Church in Beaufort, N. C.

KANSAS COMPROMISE BILL.

DETROIT, April 26.—The Free Press of this morning, sustains the Kansas Compromise Bill.

☞ The Washington correspondent of the Raleigh Standard, referring to the speech of Dr. Shaw, says:

WASHINGTON, April 24, 1858.

It will be seen by the Congressional reports that the Hon. Henry M. Shaw has replied to the pompous declamation of Mr. Gilmer on the Kansas question. This speech of Mr. Shaw is a full, clear and conclusive expose of the weak, assumptious and fallacious reasoning embodied in the dignified speech (?) of the funny Representative from the Guilford District, and is justly regarded as one of the ablest and most effective delivered during the session.

In the course of his remarks, Mr. Shaw alluded in severe terms, to the memorable 'congratulating scene' between Giddings and the funny North-Carolinian, when the great Patriarch Joshua attempted to deny the correctness of this statement. This denial is not at all strange or unlooked for to those who know the veracious Joshua, and only elicits, as it deserves, a smile of sovereign contempt. He did act as charged, and there are numbers of highly honorable gentlemen willing to testify to the accuracy of Mr. Shaw's version of the affair. Is Giddings ashamed of his connection with the "scene"? As soon as an opportunity occurs Mr. Shaw will bring this matter before the House and prove conclusively that the pious and benignant Joshua did, like the venerable Patriarchs of old, bless his hopeful protege for signal service rendered to the Republican hosts.

I have refrained from commenting on the points of Mr. Shaw's able speech, because it requires no laudation, and speaks for itself; besides the report in the Globe abounds in glaring inaccuracies and gross blunders. The speech is now in the hands of the printer, the exceedingly large number of thirty thousand copies having been subscribed for by various Representatives.

MACK'S FIRST AND LAST SPEECH.

Somewhere in the great state of New York resides a gentleman whom, both for brevity and disguise we will call 'Mac.'—Mac is a fellow of clever parts and scholarly acquirements, tells a story with admirable grace and effect, and talks as fluently as a French innkeeper; yet,—if we may take Mac's word for it,—with all his talents, he is no orator, as Everett is; though he once made experiment to find out whether he was likely to succeed in that line or not. This is the way Mac tells the story of that occasion, as nearly as we can report it:—"You see,' said Mac, 'there was to be a great republican meeting in the town of ——, and the orator, who had been advertised to do the eloquence, having given notice that he should not be able to appear, they sent down here for a substitute—and, in regular desperation, selected me as the man considering myself equal to anything that might reasonably be demanded of a gentleman and a scholar, I accepted the invitation, and went. I was warmly received by the audience, who were gathered in one the rural districts, and were mostly farmers and mechanics. It is my opinion that I made a pretty good speech. I eulogised Fremont, abused Fillmore, and gave Buchanan 'Jessie' I was logical, theological and sanguinary. I tapped Kansas in the jugular vein, and drew the claret at every word in the most approved style of oratorical phlebotomy. When I had concluded my speech, it occurred to me to say (quite as much by way of triumph as apology) that this was my first attempt at public speaking. A moment's silence, and then—'There!' shouted an old farmer, in the voice and manner of one who has made a discovery, or solved a difficult problem—'By——, I thought so!' I have my suspicion that man was a democrat, but he was sincere—I'm sure of that—and I left the balance of the campaign to the regular shriekers.'

AN ABOLITION FACTORY.

The St. Louis Leader gives a graphic sketch of one of these diabolical workshops in Ohio, where abolitionists and such like vermin are manufactured:

There is a college in Ohio called that of Antioch, where they breed up together Abolitionists of both sexes and all colors. Joshua Giddings is its Magnus Apolla and Mr. Horace Mann was and is, we believe, its hermestris magistus, its thrice great inventor of all human learning. It was there, if we mistake not, that the delicate Lucy Stone Blackwell, the modern Eloisa who was married with a protest against connubial vows that were to bind her inclinations, was indoctrinated in her refined notions of chastity. There Woman's Rights are incalculated along with Anti-slavery and Free-love. Higher Law than the statutes and Higher Gospel than the Bible are taught there. Candidates for admission are examined on the qualifications only of either a dusky skin or a fanaticism of the same hue. It is a nursery for female physicians, she-lecturers, and such sexless men as are fit to become bottle-holders and gallants to women without gender and modesty. In a word, it is an Academy of drivelers, where boys may learn to prate, and girls that are to be punks may try their tender voices in scolding at white mankind and libelling woman.

THE MORMONS.

WASHINGTON, April 29.—The Panama correspondent of the States asserts positively that Col. Kenney is negatiating with apparent prospect of success for the English Mormons to colonize that part of the Musquito coast known as the Shepherd and Haley Grant. He will first apply to Martinez for permission to raise the Nicaraguan flag under an obligation to help to defend the country against fillibusters.—Failing in this he will raise the Musquito flag, apprehending no opposition from the English authorities.

NORFOLK ADVERTISEMENTS

'YOUNG AMERICA' CORN AND COB MILL,

MANUFACTURED BY

S. MARCH, Norfolk, Va.

THE above Mill, which so far surpassed all others last season, has been improved, and made stronger and better than ever, and is now in the field carrying everything before it. It is the mill for strength, durability and swiftness.

I annex a list of premiums it has received this season, over the 'Little Giant,' 'Magic Mill,' Star Mill, Maynard's Mill, and all others that have come into competition with it:

First premium at the N. York State Fair.
First premium at the Ohio State Fair.
First premium at the Michigan State Fair.
First premium at the N. Carolina State Fair.
First premium at the Nashville (Tenn.) Fair.
First premium at one County Fair in N. York.
First premium at ten County Fairs in Ohio.
Trial of corn and cob mills at the North Carolina State Fair, October 1856.

The following table will show the time occupied by each of the Mills on exhibition in grinding half bushel of corn and cobs:

Young America,	2	minutes and	40	seconds.
Little Giant,	4	"	55	"
Magic Mill,	6	"

Sinclair & Co's Mill, two trials, average time, 6 minutes and 58 seconds.

Advantages of the Young America or Excelsior Mill over all others: 1st, great strength and durability; 2d, simplicity, (having but one set screw to graduate the quality of grinding, which renders it so simple that it may be managed by any ordinary farm hand;) 3d, it will grind more corn, or corn and cob, in the same time, and to same quality, than any other mill in use of the same size; 4th, economy—that part of the mill which is most liable to wear, being separate from the main body of the machine, can be renewed when worn out, at the small cost of $3. Thus in the Young America or Excelsior mill, I present the best, cheapest and most durable mill ever offered to the Farmer. This mill is of large size and greater capacity than any other mill ever sold at the same price

Price, including extra plates, $50.

I am also manufacturing Cart and Wagon Wheels, Farm Wagons, Carts, Trucks, Drays, Plows, Harrows, Cultivators, Corn Shellers, and Agricultural Implements generally, and am better prepared to furnish farmers and merchants than any other house in the city.

Call and examine my stock and be convinced that it is to your interest to patronize Southern enterprize. I am unwilling to believe that all the men in Virginia and North Carolina prefer to build up the North and impoverish the South.

I have also a Foundry connected with my factory, and solicit orders for Castings generally

BALTIMORE LOCK HOSPITAL.

DOCTOR JOHNSTON,

THE founder of this Celebrated Institution, offers the most certain, speedy, and only effectual remedy in the world for Gleets, Strictures, Seminal weakness, Pains in the Loins, Constitutional Debility, Impotency, Weakness of the Back and Limbs, Affections of the Kidneys, Palpitation of the Heart, Dyspepsia, Nervous Irritability, Disease of the Head, Throat, Nose or Skin; and all those serious and melancholy Disorders arising from the destructive habits of Youth, which destroy both body and mind. These secret and solitary practices are more fatal to their victims than the song of the Syrens to the mariners Ulysses, blighting their most brilliant hopes of anticipations, rendering marriage, &c., impossible.

YOUNG MEN

especially, who have become the victims of Solitary Vice, that dreadful and destructive habit, which annually sweeps to an untimely grave thousands of young men of the most exalted talents and brilliant intellects, who might otherwise have entranced listening Senates with the thunders of eloquence, or waked to ecstacy the living lyre, may call with all confidence.

Marriage.

Married persons, or Young Men contemplating marriage, being aware of physical weakness, organic debility, deformities, &c., should immediately consult Dr. Johnston, and be restored to perfect health.

He who places himself under the care of Dr. Johnston, may religiously confide in his honor as a gentleman, and confidently rely upon his skill as a Physician.

Organic Weakness

immediately cured and full vigor restored.

This disease is the penalty most frequently paid by those who have become the victims of improper indulgencies. Young persons are too apt to commit excesses from not being aware of the dreadful consequences that may ensue.—Now, who that understands the subject will pretend to deny that the power of Procreation is lost sooner by those falling into improper habits than by the prudent? Besides being deprived of the pleasure of healthy offspring, the most serious and destructive symptoms to both body and mind arise. The system becomes deranged; the physical and mental powers weakened, nervous debility, dyspepsia, palpitation of the heart, indigestion, a wasting of the frame, cough, symptoms of consumption, &c.

OFFICE—No. 7, South Frederick Street, Seven Doors from Baltimore St., East side, up the steps. ☞ Be particular in observing the name and number, or you will mistake the place.

A Cure Warranted, or no Charge Made, in from One to Two Days.

NO MERCURY OR NAUSEOUS DRUGS USED.

DR. JOHNSTON,

Member of the Royal College of Surgeons, London, Graduate from one of the most eminent Colleges of the United States, and the greater part of whose life has been spent in the Hospitals of London, Paris, Philadelphia, and elsewhere, has effected some of the most astonishing cures that were ever known. Many troubled with ringing in the ears and head when asleep, great nervousness, being alarmed at sudden sounds, and bashfulness, with frequent blushing, attended, sometimes, with derangement of mind, were cured immediately.

A Certain Disease.

When the misguided and imprudent votary of pleasure finds he has imbibed the seeds of this painful disease, it too often happens that an ill-timed sense of shame, or dread of discovery, deters him from applying to those who from education and respectability, can alone befriend him, delaying till the constitutional symptoms of this horrid disease make their appearance, such as ulcerated sore throat, diseased nose nocturnal pains in the head and limbs, dimness of sight, deafness, nodes on the shin bones and arms, blotches on the head, face and extremities, progressing with frightful rapidity, till at last the palate of the mouth or the bones of the nose fall in, and the victim of this awful disease becomes a horrid object of commiseration, till death puts a period to his dreadful sufferings, by sending him to 'that bourne from whence no traveler returns.' To such therefore Dr. Johnston pledges himself to preserve the most inviolable secrecy, and from his extensive practice in the first Hospitals of Europe and America, he can confidently recommend a safe and speedy cure to the unfortunate victim of this horrid disease.

It is a melancholy fact, that thousands fall victims to this dreadful disease, owing to the unskillfulness of ignorant pretenders, who, by the use of that dreadful poison, mercury, ruin the constitution, and either send the unfortunate sufferer to an untimely grave, or else make the residue of his life miserable.

Take Particular Notice!

Dr. J. addresses all those who have injured themselves by improper indulgencies and solitary habits which ruin both body and mind, unfitting them for either Business, Study, Society or Marriage.

These are some of the sad and melancholy effects produced by early habits of youth, viz:—Weakness of the Back and Limbs, Pains in the Head, Dimness of Sight, Loss of Muscular Power, Palpitation of the Heart, Dyspepsia, Nervous Irritability, Derangement of the Digestive Functions, General Debility, Symptoms of Consumption, &c.

MENTALLY.—The fearful effects upon the mind are much to be dreaded; loss of memory, Confusion of ideas, Depression of Spirits, Forebodings of Evil, Aversion of Society, Self-Distrust, Love of Solitude, Timidity, etc., are some of the evils produced.

Thousands of persons of all ages can now judge what is the cause of their declining health. Losing their vigor, becoming weak, pale and emaciated, having a singular appearance about the eyes, cough and symptoms of consumption.

Dr. Johnston's Invigorating Remedy for Organic Weakness.

By this great and important remedy, weakness of the organs are speedily cured, and full vigor restored. Thousands of the most nervous and debilitated, who had lost all hope, have been immediately relieved. All impediments to Marriage, Physical or Mental Disqualification, Nervous Irritability, Tremblings and Weakness, or exhaustion of the most fearful kind, speedily cured by Doctor Johnston.

Young Men,

Who have injured themselves by a Certain Practice, indulged in when alone—a habit frequently learned from evil companions, or at school—the effects of which are nightly felt, even when asleep, and if not cured renders marriage impossible, and destroys both mind and body, should apply immediately

What a pity that a young man, the hope of his country, and the darling of his parents, should be snatched from all prospects and enjoyments of life, by the consequences of deviating from the path of nature, and indulging in a certain secret habit. Such persons before contemplating should reflect that a sound mind and body are the most necessary requisites to promote connubial happiness. Indeed, without these, the journey through life becomes a weary pilgrimage, the prospects hourly darkens to the view; the mind becomes shadowed with despair and filled with the melancholy reflection that the happiness of another becomes blighted with our own

OFFICE No. 7 SOUTH FREDERICK ST. Baltimore,

ALL SURGICAL OPERATIONS PERFORMED

To Strangers.

The many thousands cured at this institution within the last 16 years, and the numerous important Surgical operations performed by Dr. witnessed by the Reporters of the papers and many other persons, notices of which appear again and again before the public, is a sufficient guarantee that the afflicted will find a skilful and honorable physician.

DR. JOHNSTON is the only regular Physician advertising to cure private complaints.—His remedies and treatment are entirely unknown to others. Prepared from a life spent in the great hospitals of Europe and the first in this country, viz: England, France, the Blockley of Philadelphia, &c., and a more extensive practice than any other Physician in the world His many wonderful cures and most important Surgical operations are a sufficient guarantee the afflicted. Those who wish to be speedily and effectually relieved, should shun the numerous trifling imposters, who only ruin their health, and apply to him.

Take Notice.

☞ There are so many ignorant and worthless Quacks advertising themselves as Physicians, ruining the health of the already afflicted, that Dr. Johnston deems it necessary to say, especially to those unacquainted with his reputation, that his credentials or diplomas always hang in his office.

☞ No letters received unless post-paid, and containing a stamp to use on the reply.

ANCIENT, MEDIEVAL, MODERN AND MILLENNIAL,

Also, Restoration of the Temple and City as invested by Titus.—Notices of its Jewish, Christian, and Heathen Antiquities—Its Present Political and Moral Condition—Future Prospects, &c.

This work is the result of investigations made during three and a half years' residence in the Holy City, with facilities for prosecuting researches never heretofore enjoyed. It was undertaken with special reference to the elucidation of the Holy Scriptures, the Talmud, the Works of Josephus, the Crusaders, and Pilgrim Chroniclers. The many valuable discoveries made in the Temple Enclosure, and other sacred localities, to which Dr. Barclay was admitted by special Firman, with permission to explore those hallowed spots, so jealously guarded for many centuries, and now for the first time presented to the Christian public, will introduce a new era in Sacred Topography.

and for the relief of consumptive patients in advanced stages of the disease.

We need not speak to the public of its virtues. Throughout every town and almost every family in the American States, its wonderful cures of pulmonary complaints have made it already known. There are few families in any civilized country in the world but what have, among their circle of friends or acquaintance, some one who has been saved by this medicine from the grave. Many of us have had publicly made known to us cases of this kind, in our own personal experience or in the experience of our immediate friends and neighbors, in the communities any where which we have lived, and we have scarcely a neighborhood in the land but what can point you to some living trophy of its victory over the most dangerous diseases of the throat and lungs. We believe it the most powerful antidote yet known to man for the formidable and dangerous diseases of the pulmonary organs. It is also the pleasantest and most reliable. Parents may have their children take it as they would sugar candy, for it is harmless. Public singers and public speakers should use it to clear the throat and strengthen the lungs. Military officers and soldiers, exposed to the inclemencies of winter, should have it in their knapsacks, for one dose will often prevent a fatal attack of pneumonia. Navigators should never go to sea without it. Indeed, no family can afford to be without it in the house. All know the dreadful fatality of lung complaints, and how insidiously they fasten themselves upon the system. They know too the virtues of this remedy, and we need say no more than to assure them it is still the best that can be. We spare no cost, no care, no labor to make the most perfect possible, and this alone is sufficient to secure to it the best agent which our skill can furnish.

The HOWARD ASSOCIATION, in consequence of the awful destruction of health and happiness caused by Sexual diseases, and the dangerous practices upon the unfortunate victims of Quacks, several years ago directed the attention of a consulting Surgeon, as a CHARITABLE act, worthy of their name, to open a Dispensary for the treatment of this class of diseases in all its various forms, and to give MEDICAL ADVICE GRATIS to all who apply by letter, with a description of their condition (age, occupation, habits of life, &c.,) and in cases of extreme poverty MEDICINES FREE OF CHARGE. It is needless to add that the Association has secured the highest Medical skill of the country, and is prepared to furnish the most approved remedies.

The Directors, on a review of the past, are assured that their labors in this noble field of usefulness, during the past year, have been of great benefit to the afflicted, especially to the young, and they have resolved to devote themselves, with renewed energy and zeal, to this very important but much neglected cause.
